The original. Teko Tryck introduced the screen printed Swedish dishcloth on the market 1994. Most design and promotion cloths on the world market are printed by us in Sölvesborg, in south Sweden. We are an international company, delivering to eg Germany, France, USA, Canada, Japan, South Korea, Australia and more.

We believe that blue is green; and so are red and yellow

We use water based ink with minimum environmental impact. They are blended in our colour room in order to provide the exact shade for the company logo or the exact yellow tone you imagined when you created your pattern. For us it is simply a matter of respect - for nature and for what is important to you. Respect is an integral aspect for creating long-term relationships with both customers and suppliers and this represents a key objective for us. This leads to significantly improved results. And it makes our work far more interesting.

The Swedish Dishcloth - Our Everyday Hero

The original since 1994. Teko Tryck introduced the screen printed dishcloths on the market 1994, since then millions of cloths have left our factory. This pure natural product will cheer up the kitchen work with your unique design, everyday!

We print for, among others, H&M, Moomin, Lisa Larson, Nobel Peace Center, Disney, Zarah Home, Anneko Design Sweden and Galleri Ann. For us, all jobs and customers are equally important and we see ourselves as a part of your team. We can print for you as well – be inspired!

We Want to Contribute to a Cleaner World

The Swedish dishcloth is made of 100 % biodegradable material – cellulose from FSC-certified forest and cotton from waste production (cotton fibers that are too short for textile industry use). Once the cloth reaches the end of its service life, it makes its way to the compost, where it decomposes in 8-12 weeks.

The dishcloth was invented by engineer Curt Lindqvist in Sweden as early as 1949. A great deal has happened since the invention, but our everyday hero, remains the same.

An eco-friendly, compostable everyday hero

The Swedish dishcloth is more than "just" incredibly useful – it is also kind to the environment. The cloth helps to cut consumption of paper towels and is the perfect replacement for other cloths, which often contain plastic. What is more, it can be washed in the washing machine or dishwasher, or even boiled. Then it can be reused a limitless number of times. Well, almost limitless. The inks we use for the printing are of course water based and eco-friendly.

The dishcloth is taken for granted in Sweden - a natural part of our everyday life. In our opinion, the dishcloth is an everyday hero that will benefit the rest of the world too.

The Swedish Dishcloth:

- 100% compostable
- 70% cellulose (FSC-certified forest)
30% cotton (fiber that are too short for textile industry use)
- Washable in dishwasher / washing machine, over and over again
- Absorbs 15 times its own weight
- Printed with environmentally friendly, water based ink
- Replaces other cloths that often contains plastics
- Contributes to reduced use of paper towels
- From forest to earth, the circle is closed

Together for a cleaner world

Labels with Bar Codes

Standard labels in white:

- A: 60x80 mm
- B: 60x40 mm

Printed in black, with your text and bar code in high resolution. The placement of the label is often on the back, in the lower right corner of the dishcloth or towel, or on a pack of products packed in shrink bag.
