

Your Vision
Crafted with Swedish Precision

You design – We print!

TekoTryck

Printing is our craft

Since 1984, we've been turning ideas into prints that last – combining screen printing with digital printing across our product range, including Swedish dishcloths, kitchen towels and velour towels.

We started a trend

In 1994, we introduced the printed Swedish dishcloth to the world. Today, most design and promotional cloths on the market are printed here – in Sölvesborg, Sweden – and shipped to customers across Europe, North America, Asia and Australia.

Where tradition meets innovation

You bring the vision. We blend the colours – by hand – until they're exactly right. Water-based inks, Swedish craftsmanship, precision in every detail.

More than printing

It's respect. For your idea. For the craft. For the partnerships we've built over decades. That's why every project we touch becomes something more.

Our Everyday Hero

The Swedish Dishcloth

The original since 1994. TekoTryck introduced customised dishcloths to the market in 1994, and since then, millions have left our factory. This pure, natural product will brighten up kitchen work with your unique design, everyday!

We offer both screen and digital printing, depending on design and volume.

We Want to Contribute

The Swedish dishcloth is made of 100% biodegradable material – cellulose from responsibly managed forests and cotton from waste production (cotton fibers too short for use in the textile industry). Once the cloth reaches the end of its life, it can go straight to the compost, where it decomposes within 8–12 weeks.

The dishcloth was invented by Swedish engineer Curt Lindqvist in 1949. Much has changed since then, but our everyday hero remains the same.

A reusable product made from biodegradable materials

The Swedish dishcloth is more than “just” incredibly useful – it is also kind to the environment. It helps reduce the use of paper towels and is the perfect replacement for other cloths that often contain plastic. You can wash it in the washing machine, dishwasher, or even boil it – and reuse it again and again. The inks we use for the printing are water-based.

In Sweden, the dishcloth is taken for granted – a natural part of everyday life. We believe this everyday hero has a place in kitchens all over the world.
